EFFECTIVE RISK MANAGEMENT STANDARD

SAZ, your national standards body has just published SAZS ISO 31000: Risk management – Principles and guidelines, which is an adoption of the International Organization for Standardization (ISO) international standard. This standard supercedes SAZS 879:2003 Risk Management which is now withdrawn.

SAZS ISO 31000 provides principles and generic guidelines on risk management. It is a generic standard, and can assist organizations of all types and sizes to manage risk effectively.

If YOU need a transparent and credible systematic and logical process to identify, analyze and evaluate your risks to facilitate effective risk management, then this standard is an essential tool in your risk management tool box.

Benefits of implementing a risk management system:

- Build up proactive management
- Identify threats and opportunities
- Improve governance
- Boost stakeholder confidence and trust
