ZWS ISO 15189: 2012 - Medical Laboratories: Particular Requirements for quality and competence

Does your organization have a medical laboratory?

If your answer is YES, the national standard ZWS ISO 15189:2012 Medical Laboratories: Particular Requirements for quality and competence is a "must have item", in your strategy to ensure quality and state of the art medical laboratories.

Medical laboratory services are critical in the diagnosis and assessment of the health of patients. Medical laboratories should therefore meet the needs of all patients, clinical personnel responsible for patient care and any other interested parties. The laboratory's goal is not only to provide accurate results, but do so within a meaningful timeframe using appropriate laboratory procedures and with respect for ethics, confidentiality and safety of patients.

The ZWS ISO 15189:2012 standard is a tool that you can use to demonstrate the competence of your medical laboratory and ensure the delivery of timely, accurate and reliable results
